UCS Clients Hold Holiday Craft Fair

Bennington, Vt. — You'll find plenty of little gems on hand for the holidays at the Developmental Services Holiday Craft Fair and Tag Sale, Friday, November 21 at the Atwood Building, 335 Dewey Street.

“We'll have a great selection of decorations, housewares, cards and gifts, stocking stuffers, and holiday items,” said Employment Connections Manager Howie Wright, who is coordinating the sale. “Crafters will be selling beautiful homemade items. And everything is inexpensive, including lunch.”

The Craft Fair is operated by people with a developmental disability. The crafters start with an idea and end with a sale. Along the way, they develop a variety of new skills that can lead to fuller employment.

The Craft Fair will get under way at 10 am and continue to 3 pm, and a delicious lunch with soup, salad, and sandwich is also being served for shoppers who need a pick-me-up.

UCS Developmental Services Division works to help employers discover that people with developmental disabilities can make great workers. When a business finds the right match, it has a loyal worker. The employee then contributes to the community and gets pride and social development out of the job.

UCS serves children, adults, families, and seniors through nationally recognized counseling, early care and education, and clinical support that changes lives.
